

February 16, 2021 Meeting

The next scheduled program for the Knoxville Estate Planning Council will be an on-line presentation on Tuesday, February 16, 2021.

Trends in the Economy: Today and Tomorrow

Dr. Ryan Mickey—Maryville College

Dr. Mickey will discuss how the changes in the current political and social climate will effect the economy in the months and years to come.

Course objectives: Attendees will gain an understanding of the economic trends in light of Covid , politics and the transition of power in Washington.

Ryan Mickey graduated from Georgia State University with a M.A. in Economics in 2013 and a Ph.D. in Economics in 2015 after working in financial planning and investment management and as an analyst in foreign exchange in Charlotte, NC. His research interests are in urban economics, regional economics, and public economics. Specifically, Dr. Mickey studies how cities and regions in the United States change as the U.S. population ages. Professor Mickey has presented his research at the Southern Economics Association's annual conference and has been published in The American Economist and the Journal of Urban Economics. Professor Mickey teaches introductory economics, international trade and finance, macroeconomics, behavioral economics, and urban economics.

Zoom meeting information will be sent out about two days via email before the scheduled presentation. Please login and register online at kepctn.org no later than Saturday, February 13, 2021. If you do not receive the zoom meeting information, contact Carol Bangash as soon as possible.
